POLISH FOOD FESTIVAL
18 May - 3 June 2017 Singapore

Wojciech AMARO

the Chef behind Atelier Amaro, the recipient of Poland's first Michelin star & author of best-selling cook books

Poland's cuisine will be making its mark in the world in the next few years. There is already more and more talk about what the Polish cuisine is all about. Polish Food Festival in Singapore can be a unique opportunity for the food savvy locals to taste it.

With Poland's first Michelin star gained by Atelier, Polish cuisine has joined the family of great cuisines around the world. Poland has a lot to offer as 30% of its territory is forested: a kingdom of mushroom, wild herbs, game, venison, berries and flowers. Biodiversity is Poland's culinary strength as Poland possesses a sea coastline, great lakes area and mountains - each filled with amazing ingredients.

I expect many more stars for Poland in the future. We can be one of the most influential and big cuisines in upcoming years. The day will come when people around the world will be saying: LET'S HAVE POLISH TONIGHT!

Piotr KUPIEC

General Manager of Sofitel Singapore Sentosa Resort & Spa and SO Sofitel Singapore

One of the most defining aspects of hospitality is food and service quality. This is why at Sofitel, our menu is thoroughly researched and curated seasonally, to ensure our guests continuously enjoy unique experiences during their stay with us.

I grew up with strong sentiments towards Polish cuisine which is traditionally rich and flavorful. As Poland is a four seasons country, particularly during winter, our body increases the appetite for calories, hence, having meat on the dining table is common. Nowadays, I'm very much influenced by the light refreshing palates from Mediterranean and Asian cuisines.

Relocating to Singapore significantly changed my eating habits towards a well-balanced diet complemented with vegetable, seafood and fruits which is very palatable both for the hot and humid climate in Singapore and hot Polish summers. This fusion of traditions and new trends prevail in the modern Polish cuisine, which I am very delighted to share during the Polish Food Festival. I am positive this culinary experience will be THE OPPORTUNITY TO DISCOVER DELICIOUS TASTES OF POLAND.

Seth LUI

*Food & Beverage
marketing consultant, awarded food journalist, founder and chief editor of one of the most famous culinary blogs
in Singapore
www.sethlui.com*

Upon hearing of Poland, Vodka would be the first thing that comes to mind, but there is so much more too. I've had the pleasure of visiting Warsaw, Poland and have tasted first-hand what Polish food is.

The food reflects what the Polish people are about, with traditional recipes passed down through generations. Sharing many similarities with other Slavic countries, its cuisine is eclectic with influences including Hungarian, French, German and Austrian. Proudly using local produce from the rich lands of Poland, dishes incorporate the best of what is grown such as apples, herbs and mushrooms.

Dining in Poland is always a huge feast, a signature of Polish hospitality. Rustic, yet constantly evolving, Polish food's laborious cooking methods will ensure a pleasant surprise for all who have the chance to experience it.

It is my pleasure TO INVITE YOU TO TRY POLISH CUISINE FOR YOURSELF!

Zenon KOSINIAK-KAMYSZ

Ambassador of the Republic of Poland to Singapore

It is my great pleasure to invite you to the first Polish Food Festival in Singapore. The motto is "Poland tastes good" and this is what we hope for Singaporeans to discover. This is a unique opportunity not to be missed. It will be an experience for all the senses, there will be something for everyone. Six talented chefs from Poland have come to Singapore to prepare for you delicious meals and canapes; there will also be Polish vodka to enjoy; movies to celebrate the Polish cinematography; and we invite you to have a picnic at a musical concert in Singapore Botanic Gardens. To make it more exciting, participate in the lucky draw and you can be the winner of a European tour to discover so much more that Poland has to offer! This event is very timely. More and more Polish food products come to the market here. Not only our famous apples, also delightful Polish chocolates, honey and cheese, among others, are increasingly present at the store shelves and make their way to Singaporean tables. Be open and give them a try. The festival's rich programme was made possible with invaluable support of our local and Polish partners to whom I would like to extend my cordial thanks. Join us for the festival events and enjoy the "taste of Poland" in Singapore. I can assure you: Poland SHIOK!
